

don't weaken the bill! I was given, in 2002, the former phone number of someone with financial problems. Not only was I harassed for months, up to 7 times per day, by his bill collectors, I also was subjected to many calls from companies wanting to "help" him solve his financial problems. The "no call" list at least would have resolved some of these calls.